

Two Injector Tracer Program

Tritiated IPA

Tritiated Water

Two Injector Tracer Program showing injector influence, communication and flow pattern.

The company was able to determine if additional injectors were needed and where they might be best positioned. This information could also be used to decide if any producers should be shut-in.

Both tracers were injected on the same day. The sampling program began that day and was continued for many months.